Orada (There) tells the 24-hour story of a Turkish family. After his mother's suicide, Mazhar, who was exiled to France for 12 years, comes back to Istanbul. The reunion with his sister Neslihan is painful. After the funeral, they decide to find and tell their father about the death of their mother. Since their separation, their father Erol lives confined on an island. They reveal their unspoken secrets during their discussion, in which they don't hesitate to blame each other and confess their past mistakes.
