This is a compilation of ten different short films directed by ten different directors on the common theme of journeys with each filmmaker presenting her cinematic impression of contemporary Kerala. The independent narratives integrate when, during these journeys, their characters pass through Kerala Cafe - a quaint railway cafeteria; thereby creating a joint mosaic of issues and impressions; in a symbiotic space and time. The film begins and ends in Kerala Cafe from where we move on to the first story, and it's there that it all ends, thus weaving a connection of sorts between the ten shorts.
