In the Vidarbha village of Maharashtra where farmers' suicides had long ceased to make news, Alka, the young wife of Kisna, another distressed farmer, lives under the fear that her husband is also on the verge of suicide. She keeps a watchful eye on her husband with the help of her mother-in-law and her 6-year-old son. She even ropes their son to be with him and report of any irregularities in his behaviour. Unaware of this, Kisna continues to struggle against the odds with an undying urge.
